

The Artificial Lake of Olivo

The artificial lake is very large but the water level rarely reaches 60% of its total capacity. The shores are at times fertile and rich in vegetation and at times bare. The bottom of the lake is predominantly muddy with an large amount of submerged and semi-submerged shrubbery. The frequent presence of algae demonstrates the use of artificial substances. It's a difficult lake to tackle and it requires technique and ability. However, the good quantity of fish in it guarantees entertainment. The indented shore to the left of the embankment is the area that is most frequented by black bass and large-sized pike.
